

Weill Cornell Medicine New York-Presbyterian Hospital

New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Weill Cornell Medicine Postdoctoral Psychology Fellowship in Eating Disorders

The Department of Psychiatry at New York-Presbyterian Hospital (NYPH) Westchester Behavioral Health Center in White Plains, New York is accepting applications for a two-year postdoctoral psychology fellowship position available in our Eating Disorders Program.

The fellowship position in Eating Disorders aims to prepare the next generation of scientist-practitioners for careers in academic research and clinical applications within the specialty area of eating disorders. In consultation with a member of the Eating Disorders faculty, the fellow will develop a training plan selecting specialized clinical training in treating individuals with eating disorders. The population being treated includes adolescents and adults diagnosed with anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, and related disorders of weight and eating. Because of the high comorbidity of eating disorders with mood and personality disorders, the fellow will have opportunities to gain a diversity of experiences. The training plan will include involvement in inpatient, partial hospital, and outpatient settings, as well as, experience doing individual, family, and group work. Fellows will be able to attend various didactics and Case Conferences that will help to broaden their knowledge. Opportunities to participate in clinical studies are available and independent investigation will be encouraged.

See website for more details: <http://psychiatry.weill.cornell.edu/postdoctoral-psychology-fellowship-westchester>

Requirements: Applicants must have a doctorate in Clinical Psychology from an APA-accredited program, evidence potential to participate in collaborative research, and be able to submit materials required to obtain the limited permit issued by the New York State Department of Education before their start date.

Start Date: Flexible start date in summer 2020 (pending limited permit)

Fellowship Duration: Two years

Application: Applicants should submit a current curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, and a letter of intent. In the letter of intent, applicants should specify the track to which they are applying, their career goals, a potential research mentor, and their clinical training goals for the fellowship.

Applicants: please compile the application materials into a single PDF document labeled with your last name, first initial, and application track (e.g., "Doe J Child Track"). Please note: If your mentors prefer to submit their letters separately, please request that they indicate your name and the track to which you are applying in their email. Address your letter of intent to:

Evelyn Attia, M.D., Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at Weill Cornell Medicine
Director of Eating Disorder Program at New York-Presbyterian Hospital and then submit the PDF file by emailing Nina Huza, Staff Assistant at nih9002@nyp.org